

Shane Hamm

Growing up on a thoroughbred broodmare farm in Youngstown Ohio, horse racing has been in his blood since day one. Being introduced to the horses at a very young age, Shane fell in love with the sport of thoroughbred racing early on. The exhilarating crowds and fierce competition instantly captured Shane's attention. Competition has always been a central focus of his life, competing for multiple state titles and at the highest levels of collegiate athletics. Competing in the SEC, playing football for the University of Kentucky has led to his two passions coming together in Lexington, Kentucky! Using this love for thoroughbred racing and the competitive drive developed through athletics has led to early success in his young career in the thoroughbred industry.
